

Welcome to week 9. I hope you all had a blessed weekend and are enjoying this amazing weather. I hope you are all excited to be at the end of quarter 1. You did it!!! You made it through either another half a semester in virtual or your first half of virtual, well done.

Thank you all for the dedication shown from all our amazing families to stay engaged with your studies. Remember the importance of staying on pace here at SJVS, you do not want to fall behind and then must start to scramble to catch up. Those that had to attend the Academic Day, I am proud of you all for attending and using the time to catch up in your studies.

Keep on Rocking everyone!! The year is flying so far!!
