- Has learned the skills necessary to participate in a variety of physical activities,
- Knows the implications and the benefits of involvement in various types of physical activities,
- Participates regularly in physical activity,
- Is physically fit,
- And values physical activity and its contributions to a healthful lifestyle.
- National Standards and Grade-Level Outcomes for K-12 Physical Education (2014), SHAPE America.

- (3) Demonstrate the knowledge and skills to achieve and maintain a health-enhancing level of physical activity and fitness;
- (4) Exhibit responsible personal and social behavior that respects self and others; and
- (5) Recognize the value of physical activity for health, enjoyment, challenge, self-expression, and social interaction. COMAR 13A.04.13.01C

About This Resource:

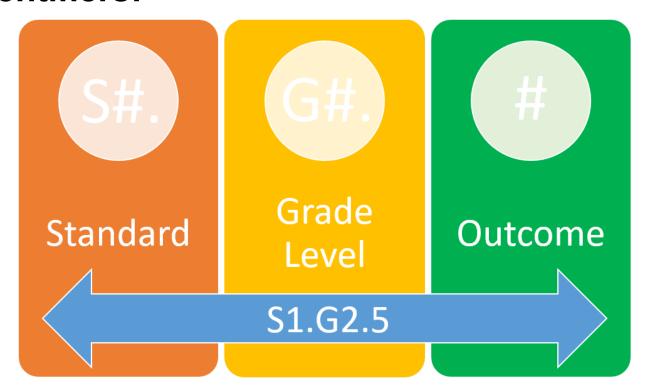

This document is designed to identify what students should know and be able to do by the end of each grade. The framework is not a Physical Education curriculum. The local school systems (LSSs) must use this document as a guide in developing their own curriculum and other instructional resources.

Teachers should use these grade-level outcomes to make instruction-related decisions and to create meaningful assessments that measure student achievement in all areas of Physical Education instruction.

If an outcome is not identified for a particular grade level then it is not a pedagogically appropriate skill to teach at that time. If an LSS has access to other facilities at its disposal, they can create additional outcomes that meet the needs of their students. For example, if a school system has access to a pool, they can create outcomes based on water safety and aquatics.

It is highly recommended that LSSs identify the critical elements necessary for their students to perform a skill with a mature pattern. The LSSs should also define how many critical elements and/or which critical elements are needed for a mature pattern when designing an assessment. Future versions of this document will provide further guidance on identifying the critical elements of each fundamental skill and how they can be used for both formative and summative assessments.

Identifiers:

Assessments:

- a) Periodically evaluate progress toward achievement of the Maryland Physical Education Content Standards;
- b) Align to the Grade-Level Outcomes of the Maryland Physical Education Framework;
- c) Monitor a student's cognitive, affective, and psychomotor progress;
- d) Include all students;
- e) Do not evaluate student dress or attendance; and
- f) Are not based on the results of a health-related fitness test.

LSSs may conduct a health-related fitness assessment as part of an annual Wellness Policy Implementation and Monitoring Plan to establish baseline student data for the health-related components of physical fitness as defined in Education Article §7–409, Annotated Code of Maryland.

Glossary:

Accuracy – Eighty percent or above successful performance of a task. Scores in the range of sixty to seventy-nine percent are considered to be reasonably accurate.

Adapted Physical Education – A specifically designed Physical Education service where the program is adapted to meet the needs of each student through modifications and accommodations in the least restrictive environment. A Guide for Serving Students with Disabilities in Physical Education (pdf)

Aerobic Capacity/Cardiovascular Endurance – The body's ability to use oxygen to create energy. Many factors influence aerobic fitness, including lung efficiency, cardiac function, age, and genetic makeup.

Affective Domain – The domain of learning which focuses on personal-social development, attitudes, values, feelings, motivations, emotions, and social skills needed to work cooperatively with others.

Cardiorespiratory Endurance – The ability to sustain exercise that increases heart rate and breathing rate. Examples might include running, cycling, swimming, and cross-country skiing.

Challenge – An essential factor for effective lesson design and goal-setting that leverages students' previous knowledge and skills to advance their lifelong learning through assertiveness, responsibility, and perseverance. To foster challenging learning experiences, struggle and progress go hand in hand to achieve incremental mastery of complex competences.

Cognitive Domain – The domain of learning which focuses on knowledge and intellectual understanding of content.

Critical Elements – The key components of a motor skill that can be observed, the sum of which results in movement efficiency.

Cues - Short, student-friendly phrases that provide key points to a skill.

Culturally Relevant Teaching – The deliberate and strategic implementation of a lesson plan that recognizes the importance of including students' backgrounds, interests, skill levels, and learning styles.

Differentiated Instruction – A method of instruction in which teachers actively plan and vary teaching strategies to accommodate individual differences based on students' backgrounds, interests, skill levels, and learning styles.

Distance – Space (length, width, or height) that is constantly adjusted to be developmentally appropriate and meet individual needs while still challenging students to perform a skill and meet the safety requirements/limitations of the instructional space.

Dynamic Environment (Open Skills) – Skills performed in an unpredictable way, while in motion.

Elements of Dance – Movement, relationship, time, energy, space, and body.

Endurance – The ability to perform an exercise for an extended period of time.

Exergaming – Video games that require physical activity during play.

Feedback – Statements that inform the student of their strengths and areas for improvement. Corrective statements should be given in a timely manner and be individualized, positive, and skill-specific with the goal of enhancing performance. Examples might include cross-space, oral, written, peer-to-peer, and one-on-one.

Fitness Activities – Activities that focus on improving or maintaining health-related fitness. Examples might include yoga, resistance training, spinning, running, fitness walking, fitness swimming, kickboxing, cardio-kick, and exergaming.

Formal Assessments – Evaluating student performance with a written or standardized instrument that may have a predetermined criterion.

Formative Assessments – Assessments that are ongoing during instruction, allowing teachers to track student progress and adapt instruction accordingly.

Maryland Physical Education Framework: Pre-Kindergarten through 12th Grade | May 2020

Fundamental Motor Skill – Locomotor, non-locomotor, and manipulative skills that provide the foundation for more complex movement patterns used in games and sports.

Grade-Level-Outcomes (GLOs) – Evidence-based, deliberate, and strategic progressions that clarify what students should know and be able to do at various points in their PreK-12 academic career.

Health-Related Fitness Components – Aerobic capacity, body composition, flexibility, muscular strength, and muscular endurance.

Health-Related Fitness Assessment – Assesses the health-related fitness components of aerobic capacity, body composition, flexibility, muscular endurance, and muscular strength. Teachers must encourage personal fitness improvement, personal bests, and personal skill achievement. Students who receive negative feedback based on fitness scores most often develop negative attitudes toward physical activity, which goes against the goal of Physical Education. Health-Related Fitness Testing in Maryland (pdf)

High School Level 1 – The Maryland State Department of Education required 0.5 credit course and a prerequisite to High School Level 2 courses. These outcomes reflect the minimum knowledge and skills that students must acquire and attain by graduation to be college or career-ready.

High School Level 2 – Outcomes that build on Level 1 competencies by augmenting knowledge and skills considered desirable for college or career readiness.

Inclusion – The provision of a learning environment where students with disabilities have opportunities to participate and learn with their nondisabled peers in a general education setting.

Individual-Performance Activities – Activities that allow an individual to pursue lifelong fitness without the need of teammates. Activities might include gymnastics, figure skating, track and field, multisport events, in-line skating, wrestling, self-defense, and skateboarding.

Informal Assessment – Assessment that evaluates student performance without a formal or written instrument to inform instruction.

Invasion Games – Activities in which students try to advance into an opponent's territory in order to score a goal or point. Maintaining possession, offensive and defensive tactics, and communication are crucial to success. Activities might include soccer, basketball, hockey, ultimate, and handball.

Lifetime Activities – Activities that are suitable for participation across the lifespan and that one can undertake alone or with a partner as opposed to a team. Examples might include outdoor pursuits, individual-performance activities, aquatics, net/wall games, and target games.

Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) – An environment in which supplementary aids, services, supports, and program modifications are provided to students with disabilities to access the standards based curriculum.

Mature Pattern – A pattern in which students execute with efficiency all of the critical elements of a motor skill in an authentic environment.

Moderate-to-Vigorous Physical Activity (MVPA) – Activities that are equivalent to the intensity of a brisk walk, bicycling, jogging, or aerobic dancing that cause an increase in breathing and heart rate.

Modified Games – Small-sided games in which the rules have been changed to deliberately emphasize and provide additional practice of particular skills and tactics taught in class.

Movement Concepts – Applicable principles and knowledge related to skillful performance of movement and fitness activities, such as spatial awareness, effort, tactics, and strategies related to movement efficiency and health-enhancing fitness.

Newton's Three Laws of Motion – The movement concepts of the Law of Inertia, the Law of Motion, and the Law of Action and Reaction, which can be applied to various outcomes.

Non-Dynamic Environment (Closed Skills) – Skills that are performed in a constant, predictable, or stationary way. The goal for performers is to produce movements that are consistent and accurate because the environment is stable and unchanging.

Nutrient-Dense Foods – Foods that provide vitamins, minerals, and other substances with little or no solid fats, added sugars, refined starches, and sodium. The "all foods fit" philosophy must be emphasized where there are no "good" foods or "bad" foods and all foods provide nourishment whether physical or emotional. The idea that no food has moral value is an important concept in removing judgments and distortions that often form in disordered eating.

Outcomes – Statements that specify what learners will know or be able to do as a result of a lesson.

Outdoor Pursuits – Activities might include kayaking, canoeing, sailing, rowing, hiking, backpacking, fishing, orienteering, geocaching, ice skating, skateboarding, snow skiing, water skiing, snowboarding, snowshoeing, surfing, bouldering, traversing, climbing, mountain biking, adventure activities, and ropes courses. Selection of activities is dependent on the environmental opportunities within the geographical region.

Overload Principle – The principle that it is necessary to place increasing demands on the body during exercise to cause the body to adapt. This is accomplished by manipulating the frequency, intensity, time (duration), and type (FITT) of activity.

Psychomotor Domain – The domain of learning which focuses on the performance of motor skills.

Rubric – An assessment and instructional tool that identifies criterion behaviors for at least two levels of performance. Each level of the rubric identifies and describes criterion behaviors that contain critical elements of the tasks along a range or continuum of performance expectations.

Skill Proficiency Continuum – The three stages of skill development and application:

Emerging – Showing some skill development through practice in a non-dynamic environment.

Maturing - Demonstrating most of the critical elements through practice.

Applying – Demonstrating a mature pattern in a dynamic environment.

Skill-Related Fitness Components – Speed, power, agility, balance, coordination, and reaction time.

Small-Sided Games – Organized games in which the number of players involved is reduced from the conventional competitive version of the sport.

Strategy – The overall game plan that can lead to success.

Summative Assessment – An assessment that occurs at the close of a unit, providing teachers with a comprehensive summary of student progress and growth.

Tactics - Moment to moment adaptations made to address challenges that arise during game play.

Target Games – Activities in which students send (propel) an object toward a target. Control, accuracy, and exhibiting a limited amount of force are crucial to success but not indicative of a mature pattern. Activities might include archery, bocce, bowling, cornhole, croquet, disk golf, golf, horseshoes, ladder ball, and shuffleboard.

Task Progression – Building gradually from one activity or task to the next to increase the challenge and complexity of the content.

Teaching with Fidelity – Implementing a curriculum the way it was intended to be implemented by the developers. The program's critical features are present and delivered as prescribed, and the teachers are supportive and prepared. Physical Education in Maryland (pdf)

Technology – Software, websites, devices, and applications used as tools in Physical Education to enhance teaching and learning, not to drive instruction. A technology tool should not become a distraction or a hindrance to moderate-to-vigorous physical activity.
