WA Assoc. of Agricultural Educators invites you to attend a field tour featuring three demonstration farms, ranches, and forests used for research and community/ student engagement. Learn about land gifts, funding the management, and engaging the public to develop healthy, productive, and safe farms and forests of one's your own. See and discuss active management including forest management, agroforestry systems such as silvopasture, riparian restoration, aspen regeneration, wildlife habitat enhancement, prescribed fire, rotational grazing, forest insects and disease management, and delivering out-in-the-woods educational opportunities for students, practitioners, and the public.

Fee: $100/ person or ownership (includes lunch)
