The Christian Century

"I'm angry and sad because I have loved you so long. This new issue looks and feels like every other throw-away magazine—slick, harder to read, angular, no longer unique; electronic-looking, it flattens the spirit. You give me "Progressive," that poor, beaten-to-death, ground-to-a-pulp word—no longer Prophetic, Passionate, Visionary, but "thoughtful." I already have 'reading pleasure.' I wanted God. (The Holy Spirit doesn't progress.) Oh Yes! to a multisensory print experience, a conduit of the Word. So what does this very slick, tight-columned, hard-spined inflexibility say about God?"
